

DRY!

4. When your figures are ready to dry, place them (in a standing position) out in a dry spot with circulating air (for example, a window sill or the top of a refrigerator). Recommended "drying time" is overnight, or 12 hours. NOTE: Drying time is directly affected by weather conditions. In hot or humid climates, more drying time may be needed.

DECORATE!

5. When your figures are completely hard to the touch, use the markers to color, decorate and customize them in any way you want! HINT: Color lightly, with easy pressure.

DISPLAY!

6. Open the other side of the Millennium Falcon to display your figures inside!

Snap base of radar dish onto top of Millennium Falcon, then snap radar dish onto base as shown.

MOLD!

1. Take a small ball of Air Hardening Compound and roll or knead it with your fingers to soften and smooth it. Try to remove any cracks or "lines" that may be in the compound.
2. Open the round side of the Millennium Falcon™ to reveal 4 figure molds. (For best results, make one item at a time.) Close and press the book mold all the way down, open it, and remove excess compound from around the figure. Then close and press the book mold down once more for best molding results.
3. Open the book mold and carefully remove the finished figure. HINT: Tap the mold on a hard surface if the figure sticks in the mold. The mold can be washed with water to remove any residue or build-up.
