The game consists of 50 cards which may be used to play two different games. Either game may be played by from 2 to 6 players.

TO PLAY NAME THE STATES:

Select one player to act as dealer. Deal the cards map side up, one card at a time to each player, beginning with the player on the dealer's left, until there are not enough cards to complete another round. Place the left-over cards to one side. These are not used in the game. Each player now places the cards dealt to him on the table in front of him in a pile being sure to keep them map side up.

The main point in this game is to get all of your cards into the center of the table first, by naming each state correctly as your turn comes.

The playing is started by the player at the left of the dealer. He tries to name the state that is blacked in on the top card of his pile. To see if he has named the state correctly he turns over the card and reads the name of the state printed in large black letters on the back of the card.

If he did name the state correctly he throws the card to the center of the table, map side down. If he did not know the name, or called an incorrect name, he must place the card back into his own pile on the bottom, map side up.

It is then the turn of the next player at the left and so on around the table. The first one out of cards is Winner of the game NAME THE STATES.

TO PLAY QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS:

Deal all the cards one at a time to the players. Each player holds his cards up in his hands, printed side toward him, so that he may read his questions to the other players.

Having decided that Game No. 1 questions are to be used for the first game, the dealer starts the game by reading the first question, No. 1, from his top card. Starting at his left he asks for an answer from each player around the table. If each one in turn, fails to give the correct answer he reads the answer aloud from the card and places the card in front of him on the table as a Scoring Point. But, if any one of the players answers the question correctly he receives that question card from the Reader and he places the card on the table in front of himself.

It is then the turn of the player at the left of the starter to read his No. 1 question from his top card asking for answers around the table from each player and in case no one answers correctly he must read the answer to the other players, and may keep the card on the table as a Scoring Point for himself.

At the end of the game, each player has two types of Scoring Cards, those of his which no one has answered, and those of other players which he has answered. He counts these cards all together when the game is over.

The player who has the most points Wins.

For a second game the players may choose to play QUESTION 4 GAME, or any of the others they may select.
